The cases of Edna Righter, by next friend, vs C. & A. R. R., Maude Dry vs C. & A. and Rosa Allen against the same road came up in the Au-drain Circuit Court Tuesday after-noon and it took most of the day Wednesday. All three of the defendents live in the neighborhood of Eush Hill where the O. & A. has a station.

The incidents in the case are these.

The three young ladies went to Louisans on July 11 and returned on an exoursion train the same night. The night was very dark and it was bailing ery hard, so hard that the headligh in the engine was said to have been broken out and the light extinguished This caused the engineer to lose his searings and he could not tell whe he was. He stopped the train almost a mile from Rush Hill to look around and the porter thinking it was Rust Hill, put the three young ladies, it is alleged, off in a ditch by the side of the track in which they claim th water and mud was very deep. They caught the train before is go away and rode up to where they again thrught was the station, but which they discovered was another place about 300 yards from the plat form.
